

Biodiversity

Amidst the vast universe ocean
Among the billion galaxies and stars
Lies our blue planet, the prized jewel of all
Home to you and to me
Where creatures roam of land and sea
Where a leaf flutters, and a giant oak swells in pride
Beaming with life and myriad colors
The worker ants, the trunked giants, the striped cats, the thieving rats
The mammals of sea, the birds of paradise
On treetops they sleep, some in burrows deep She's home to all, she feeds them all
With droopy eyes her children lie down
And Mother Earth rocks them to sleep!
